

Front and rear loading dimensions are the same. Rear loading units do not require a door to be reserved for master access, therefore all openings are available for storage.